Dear Campus Community,

On Friday, March 1, 2019, many students and visitors will participate in an event known as Unofficial St. Patrick's Day. The university does not support or condone this event.

The Champaign, Urbana, and University of Illinois police departments, assisted by other local and state agencies, will patrol the campus district on March 1. They will enforce all applicable ordinances in commercial and residential areas and have authority to intervene if private parties threaten to disturb the peace. In addition, Champaign and Urbana officials will enact restrictions on liquor sales intended to curb overconsumption. Emergency medical personnel will be available to provide care.

University police will continue to focus on protecting students, staff, faculty, and university property. If asking a disruptive student to leave class could escalate into a confrontation, you may seek assistance from these officers. Should you need to report an incident, call METCAD at 911 for emergencies, 333-8911 for non-emergencies.

As in years past, we have made clear to students that academic business will continue as usual on Unofficial St. Patrick's Day. Instructors are encouraged not to cancel classes.

The Student Code [http://studentcode.illinois.edu/] addresses student responsibilities on campus. Sections 1-102(d) concerns classroom conduct expectations, section 1-305 is the policy on drugs, and section 1-307 focuses on alcohol consumption. The Code empowers instructors to ask disruptive students to leave class; after class, names of disruptive students should be reported to the Office of Student Conflict Resolution at 217-333-3680.

Students will be asked not to bring any liquids into Foellinger Auditorium and Lincoln Hall Theatre. Longstanding policy prohibits liquids and food in these spaces.

Students who interfere with the academic mission of the university will face serious consequences. Thank you for reinforcing this message before and on March 1.

Keep it moderate.

When your blood alcohol content (BAC) is 0.08% or higher, you’re considered legally impaired. Download an app to help track your BAC.

Make a plan.

Never drink and drive. Walking or using public transportation are great alternatives. For added safety, travel with a friend or group.

Eat regularly and drink water.

Proper nutrition and hydration are key as alcohol is a diuretic and may cause you to become dehydrated over the course of the day.

Pace yourself.

Know your limits and don’t exceed them. There are countless alternatives to alcohol including water, sports drinks, and a wide variety of non-alcoholic beverages.

Major key: Look out for each other.

Check in on friends throughout the day. Don’t hesitate to call 911 if you or someone else is in trouble — the university’s Medical Amnesty and Good Samaritan procedure protects you from formal discipline action when you call for help.

Call 911 in an emergency

Know the signs of alcohol poisoning.

Symptoms include vomiting, slow and irregular breathing, low body temperature, passing out, and pale skin. Call 911 if you notice these signs.

Set your own limits, count your drinks, alternate alcohol and non-alcoholic drinks, and pace yourself.

Respect other people and their limits and Re-Think the Drink.
Medical Amnesty & Good Samaritan Procedures

The Senate Committee on Student Discipline and the Office for Student Conflict Resolution encourage all members of our community to act in a safe, low-risk, responsible manner at all times.

When someone is in danger, University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign students are expected to take immediate action to provide or secure assistance, such as calling 9-1-1.

Students are then expected to stay with the individual in need of assistance and cooperate with emergency and University officials.

No formal disciplinary action will be taken against students for their personal substance use when Medical Amnesty procedures are followed. Failing to call and assist when one is aware of an emergency may be an aggravating factor in a disciplinary response.
